About slow wine

slow wine – because it's a personal thing.

"In a world that is beginning to become more and more impersonal, we try to slow down a little and enjoy what has always been a personal thing – wine."

Being an old trend that has been discarded by commercial wineries in favor of raising the quantity of production, slow wine returns to the roots of classic winemaking tradition by importing natural wines from small winemakers – passionate artisans that see themselves as non-interventionists and risk-takers.

Who? We, a duo of educated sommeliers and slow enthusiasts, have a mission to rejuvenate our wine culture by collaborating with like-minded winemakers that share our sense for hedonistic pleasure on the basis of few additives and as little manipulation as possible. In sum, unique & exciting flavors, old-style crafted wine beauties and an alternative to today's modern consumerism.

Why? By being more in tune with life's natural rhythm, we aim to embrace ancestral wine culture and working together with producers of local provenances in Italy. Since Italy is at the heart of the slow food movement, a wide range of winemakers have been embracing the philosophical foundation behind the dolce fare slow. With an emphasis on mindfulness about drinking natural and artisanal produced pleasure, these producers shared their personal stories with us, which we would like to share with you. After all, we aspire to act as ambassadors for the local wineries in order to create a bridge between consumers here and producers over there.

What? Just as we like to know what we're eating these days, we want to know exactly what we're drinking, too. Our imported wines are the result of delicate winemaking processes with a minimum of interventions, no additives but only the tiniest quantities of sulphites, and made by independent producers from handpicked and organically grown grapes. Unlike commercially produced wines, our natural wines are not subjected to intense controlled production processes as opposed to the ones employed in big companies. This allows winemakers to create a one-of-a-kind wine with an own personal touch. A wine, which opens up for new exciting experiences.

Where? As much as we have been invited to the winemakers' homes in Italy, we would like to invite you to our home in Kanne, a cozy village in Belgium Limburg. Get to know our wines, join a tasting or visit our website. Feel free to order via our online shop and to subscribe for our newsletter. Any questions? You're welcome to contact us.

Reading Guide

You are reading the current price list of slow wine. This list structured around the Italian wine regions in alphabetical order. In every region you find the producers we work together with and their wines we offer. You can see from every wine whether it is a sparkling (mouss.), white, rosato, red or passito (sweet) wine. There is a vat-exclusive and vat-inclusive price for every wine. You can find more detailed information about the regions, producers, wines, grape varieties and availability on www.slow-wine.net.

Ten rules for natural wines

1. The winemaker is a relatively small, independent wine producer.
2. The winemaker wants to produce natural wines out of principals and understands the risks.
3. The winemaker grows his own grapes.
4. The grape varieties being used are mainly local, native grape varieties, autochthonic to the region.
5. The handpicked grapes are cultivated biologically; no chemicals and pesticides.
6. The winemaker follows the natural course in the vinification process.
Nothing is added to correct color, smells or taste of a wine.
7. Sulphites are used as a conservator and in absolute minimal doses.
8. The fermentation starts spontaneous with indigenous yeasts own to the grape.
9. The wine is not clarified and very lightly filtered.
10. The wine is a unique expression of the maker and reflects the terroir with specific cultural context and traditions.
